INFORMATION AND PROCEDURE WITH REGARD TO NOISE NUISANCE COMPLAINTS

Information with regard to noise that cannot be measured in accordance with the stipulations of SANS 10103 ("The measurement and rating of environmental noise with respect to annoyance") and are therefore then addressed in terms of Regulation 9 of the Noise Control Regulation of Gauteng 1999

Regulation 9 of the Noise Control Regulations of Gauteng 1999 (Provincial Gazette, Extraordinary no 75 of August 1999) defines a noise nuisance as any sound which disturbs or impairs or may disturb or impair the convenience or peace of any person.

The person, whose convenience or peace is disturbed or impaired by any noise, is therefore entitled to lodge a complaint with this Department.

The official of the Department investigating the complaint does not evaluate the noise or take sound level measurements (Objective Assessment) in the case of noise nuisances (sound that cannot be measured in accordance with the stipulations of SANS 10103 and SANS 10328) but issue a statutory notice on the person causing the noise nuisance, or allow it to be caused, on strength of the information provided by the complainant/s, in his/her official complaint supported by sworn statements, only. (Subjective Assessment)

The complainant/s will be notified in writing that a notice had been served and the complainant shall diarise and keep evidence, if and when the noise nuisance reoccurs.

If the person on whom the Statutory Notice has been served, does not comply with the instructions set out in the notice and the noise nuisance continues, the investigating official must take the matter up with the Control State Prosecutor in order for a J175 (Notice to Appear in Court) to be issued. The only information the Control State Prosecutor will have to evaluate whether the State will be able to successfully bring the matter to it's conclusion in Court, will be the statement of the Complainant that initiated the matter and support statements of subsequent reoccurrences after the Statutory Notice had been served.

Although the Statutory Notice served on the person causing the noise nuisance or allowing it to be caused, is strongly worded and have, in most cases, the desired effect to resolve the matter, it remains the first step in instituting legal action. The complainant must therefore be prepared, once the process is set in motion by the issuing of the Statutory Notice, to avail him/herself as State Witness as he/she will be subpoenaed as such. In fact the complainant will be the only person that can prove the case in front of the magistrate. The investigating official handling (investigating) the complaint will be only part of the system to bring the parties, complainant and accused, in front of the Magistrate. (Subjective assessment) The Magistrate, as presiding officer, will assess whether the sound emanating from the alleged transgressor's premises constitutes a noise nuisance or not, on strength of evidence presented to him during the hearing. The case of the complainant presented by the State by the Prosecutor, using the information from the statement of the complainant, and the counter arguments of the accused represented by his/her legal counsel will therefore apply.

Seeing that the Court Roll is congested, the Control State Prosecutor is obliged to only issue J175 Notices to Appear in Court and place cases on the Court Roll that have a reasonable chance for successful prosecution.

Audio visual material (videos) will be accepted as court evidence if it can be authenticated and submitted with the initial statement, as well as with the statements of recurrences of the Noise Nuisance after the Statutory Notice was served. This will greatly enhance the case and in some cases the Control State Prosecutor will insist on it, as in cases of dogs barking, prior to issuing J175 Notices to Appear in Court.

It must be emphasised that if, for some reason or another, the case is lost in Court and the accused is acquitted, he/she will assume that he/she was in the right and can continue causing the noise nuisance, which will not necessarily be the case, but it will be extremely difficult to bring the same matter to court again.

Note that transgressions of the stipulations of this legislation is a criminal offence and the accused can be fined up to R20 000 or imprisoned for up to 2 years, or both, if found guilty or admit guilt and will then have a criminal record.

It is therefore critical for the complainant to keep all the above in mind prior the lodging of a complaint and in compiling his/her statement. The investigating official and the State Prosecutor will assist during the Court proceedings, but to have the matter placed on the Court Roll, bring it to a successful conclusion in Court, have the accused found guilty, sentenced and resolve the noise nuisance in this manner, are largely dependent on the complainant him/herself.

Therefore, if a person wishes to lodge a complaint with this Department with regard to a noise nuisance, it should be in writing and preferably in the form of a statement which must include:

1. Complainants full names and surname.
2. ID number
3. Physical address
4. The exact nature and extent of the complaint with times and dates
5. How the noise negatively impacts on his/her convenience and/or peace
6. The exact physical address of the property from where the noise originates from
7. The contact details of the person causing the noise nuisance or allow it

So, what did you do with yourselves?

'Him' and I went to Sammy Marks Museum just outside Pretoria. We had to fumigate the old thatch, which means we have to seal the house for 8 hours and go somewhere for the day, and it would have been the last time we would go that way on the highway due to the tolls. That went by the way as we all know, until further notice. Power to the People!

There is a tour of the house in English or Afrikaans for R25 each, with concessions for pensioners. You can walk around the gardens and then take a very nice afternoon tea in the Bertha Marks Rose Garden. They do a selection of salads and gorgeous home made lemonade with mint and ice and deserts to die for, all at reasonable prices, or you can just have a pot of tea or coffee. A lovely setting for a day out.

It is the story of rags to riches for a Lithuanian Jew who saw opportunities to provide services to people from stainless steel knives to sell when he arrived in South Africa when he was 24, to establishing companies supplying bricks, tiles, brandy, whiskey, gin, glass and a bank.

He was a great friend of Kruger, but remained neutral during the Boar War.

There is only one book written about Sammy Marks and if you can get hold of it, it is worth reading.

On the highway you can also see the sign for the Pioneer Museum and of course Jan Smuts House at Irene. Again, both worth a visit.

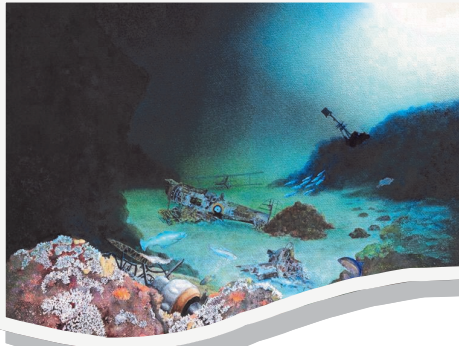

F OUR LEGGED VISITORS

Wednesdays I have a gardener and opening the gate for him at 0800, I received two other visitors, a small pony and a donkey. It seems Block 5 is having its fair share of wondering horses. Luckily I knew the owner and gave her a ring. They safely went home but there was me waving motorists down who were well over the speed limit on Donovan, so that they were not frightened walking back to their paddock.

Q UAD BIKES ON PUBLIC ROADS

GARA received a report of a nasty accident last Saturday night on Rosies Place Street between a quad bike and a vehicle. It must have been serious as an ambulance and fire engine was present. The driver of the quad bike was receiving attention from the paramedics and we understand that he sustained a broken leg and is now recovering. He was wearing a helmet.

It has been noticed that quad bikes seem to be on the increase on the roads within Glen Austin. According to the website 'Arrive Alive', quad bikes are not allowed on public roads. Two were seen this week riding side by side on Donovan Road with an adult driving and small children on the back. None of the riders or passengers were wearing helmets.

To those people we ask "Are your children precious to you?" It only takes one of the speeding motorists in the area to lose control avoiding an animal or a dog to run out of a driveway. You swerve the rest will be history.

GOODBYE TO SASHA

I have mentioned in previous Newsletters the antics of my dog Sasha (SPCA Special) especially with moles in the garden - nose into the mole hole, down on her front elbows with her bum up in the air and tail wagging furiously.

Sad to say Sasha although only 5 years old was diagnosed with Cancer 7 weeks ago and on Wednesday, it was obvious that it was time to say goodbye before she began to suffer. She was put to sleep in a very dignified way and now Sasha is buried in our garden under the trees.

Well, there are a few things to keep you quiet this weekend and.....

Remember: A weed is a plant that has mastered every survival skill except for learning how to grow in rows.
